Join Sea Ventures, May 15 & 16 2010, to dive the only German U-boat to be found off Morehead City, NC

Just off the coast of Nags Head lies the remains of the German U-boat U-352. For more than 66 years, U-352 has rested off our Nation's coast, slowly revealing her story and offering us glimpses into a past that many Americans are unaware even existed. On May 9, 1942, the U-352 fired two torpedoes. The target was the USCG Cutter Icarus. The Icarus fired 7 depth charges. The Icarus continued its attack with machine guns and 3 inch guns. The U-352 rests at the Graveyard of the Atlantic. She remains to this day, an exciting dive destination.

This will be a recreational dive to a maximum depth of 115' feet. This dive is recommended for recreational divers with an advanced open-water or equivalent certification and wreck-diving experience. We will dive both Saturday and Sunday – with the plan to dive the U-352 twice on one of those days; weather permitting. Cost of dives will be $230 + $15/pps fuel charge. Divers will be expected to dive both Saturday and Sunday. Divers will be responsible for own accommodations – Discovery Diving offers divers the use of their bunkhouse. You can dive the sub on regular air, but you will have more bottom time if you dive it on NITROX. The local dive shop banks 32% NITROX and will custom mix NITROX as requested. Get your Nitrox Training at Sea Ventures.
